

Retail

Our customers choose System77 because our POS is fully integrated with all stock and financials modules, providing real-time visibility of sales and stock levels across multiple stores.

Ideally suited to both FMCG and personalised service environments, the system is designed to be highly intuitive to significantly reduce staff learning curves.

System77 is a highly intuitive, fully integrated retail solution, delivering integrity, security and real-time management information.

Simple and User Friendly

System 77 POS is so easy to use. Configurable preferences allow you to customise the user interface to reduce staff learning curves. The on-screen keypad provides easy access to products for faster transaction times and improved customer service. Product images and payment symbols enhance the retail experience.

Fully Integrated and Fully Functional

A single POS transaction updates inventory, banking and financials to deliver high levels of internal efficiency. The power of the fully functional POS allows operators to process all types of sales transactions: cash sales, account sales, returns, credits, quotes, laybys, rainchecks, and customer orders.

High Integrity

Information you can rely on. That's what you need and that's what System 77 provides. Many systems fall short in a multi-store environment. From the ground up, System 77 is designed for high transaction environments and has built-in safeguards to ensure data integrity.

Real-Time Information

Management staff have full access to all sales, profit and stock information in real-time across all locations. Staff at any store can view stock availability across all stores to greatly improve customer service and cut telephone costs.

Security of Cash and Stock

In any retail business, security of cash and stock is always a great concern of management. System 77 has been proven to make store staff accountable for all cash and stock movements to protect your investments.

Failsafe Redundancy

In today's high tech world you rely on networks to provide you with the ability to communicate in real-time so you can be proactive in customer service and managing your business. System 77 has developed integrated redundancy systems that allow you to continue trading in the unlikely event of a network disconnection from head office. When the link is re-established, all transactions processed when offline are synchronised with the head office database.

System 77 develops, installs and supports fully integrated software solutions.

We understand that your business software is an important tool you use to manage stock, control expenses, and identify areas where profits and revenues can be increased.

Since 1977 we have provided software solutions to enable businesses to grow whilst improving efficiency to keep costs and overheads low.
